December 2025

Your social media guide for the 'Stop Smoking, Feel Happier' Campaign

In this guide you will find examples of post copy that you can use to promote the campaign through your channels such as: websites, newsletters, resident emails and social media.

We've also outlined some guidance on how the posts on the main campaign's social media platforms will work and tactics around posting that will help amplify your local accounts as well as the main campaign account.

Platforms

When posting on social media, ensure that you are tagging 'South East Smokefree Alliance' across all platforms.

As well as the campaign materials provided, if you have other images of service details / numbers to call, pictures from case studies etc, feel free to share these as they are a good way of helping to bring the campaign to life.

Facebook: www.facebook.com/SouthEastSmokefreeAlliance

If you are posting through your own Facebook page, please ensure that you are tagging in the correct page so that it can be reshared.

Videos, single and carousel graphics can be posted on Facebook.

Instagram: @southeastsmokefreealliance

Ensure that you are tagging the correct social media account across all posts.

Videos, single and carousel graphics can be posted on main feeds, and also stories.

We recommend posting as collaborative posts with the @southeastsmokefreealliance account as combined posting can help your content reach more people.

TikTok: @sesmokefreealliance

Ensure that you are tagging the correct social media account across all posts.

Videos perform better than graphics, however there is still an option to post carousel graphics from mobile devices on the app.

Launch Period

Campaign descriptor:

The following copy can be used within newsletters, or social media posts with accompanying graphics / images.

A new regional campaign is hitting the streets to dispel a common myth about smoking as a way of relieving stress and ask what makes the South East happy?

Members of the South East Smokefree Alliance (SESA) will be out and about across towns and cities throughout January to spark conversations about wellbeing, and the link between quitting smoking and feeling better.

The campaign is built on growing evidence that stopping smoking doesn't just improve your physical health, it can also make you happier. Within weeks of quitting, people's brains start to rebalance dopamine, the "happy hormone" that smoking suppresses us creating naturally.

Content Schedule

We have created a content schedule which can be used as a guide for when to post content organically across your social media platforms, including which assets to post alongside the copy. There are also suggested posts which will co-ordinate with each Roadshow event across the South East.
